Henry VII [1] took his spiritual leanings from the stories of King Arthur and a realm worthy of the help of god. He was a shrewd king and left his soon to be proved unworthy son a fortune and peace in his realm. Henry VIII [2] (sat at the helm of the Round Table above) and his desire of a son would cause schism in England upon which the nonconformists in Europe allied with the Venetian networks and those home grown rebels would jump at the opportunity to have England as a centre for all things Reformation. In so doing he opened the door for the destruction of the Christian ideal which believed that to trust the people to behave well, by slowly expanding freedom, would naturally bring about an expansion of individual morality without the need for dictatorial regimes. Perhaps more out of ignorance and a serious ego, Henry VIII would begin the road to the complete destruction of the Usury laws enabling a return of the unregulated moneylenders who understood economics through their global trade, and always created the system like a casino stripping the wealth of all nations they gained entrance. What could have been the true Church of England under Edward VI, [3] was demolished by the fanatical Puritan fascist power grab.

A force synchronised in all things war and subterfuge having become adept in such matters to monopolise trade, would now be used to monopolise belief through outright dictatorship. Everything would be banned, fun, laughter and dance as they prepared for the Zion born warlord, Oliver Cromwell.

The British East India Company would be the child of Henry’s schism, commissioned by his daughter Elizabeth I, [4] pulling in families of wealth from all areas of the globe, who together would expand the trade monopoly into the East and to the West, always finding subversive traders happy to usurp the nation in which they earned their wealth.

All European elites had their respective corporate machines, colonising to instil trade systems, pyramidal in design, brutal in their management, yet still never a shortage of men willing to act against their nations for the promise of wealth. By the time we reach the 19th century, a colossus of companies needed to be brought into line to act in unison to the final goal of the Great Work, this is were the story of the East India conglomerates ends, and the Milner Round Table Group begins.
Officially formed in 1891, its history going back to 1873 with a serious Baliol influence and control. Carol Quigley [5] breaks up the Round Table into four periods:

1873 to 1891 under W.T.Stead and Alfred Milner. (Toynbee group)

1891 to 1901 under Cecil Rhodes with Stead at the helm. Cecil secret society and Lord Salisbury group)

1901 to 1922 called the new college period with Milner at the helm

1922 to present called the all souls period, centred on Lord Lothian, Lord Brand and Lionel Curtis.

Between 1910 to 1922 Sir Alfred Zimmern was a member of the inner circle, but seemingly from 1922 moved out of the inner circle.

Lord Halifax became close to the group from 1903, finally becoming a member in 1920 Viscount Astor on the other hand had been closer than Halifax to the group from its conception and moved to the centre of the group from 1916, and more so from 1922 becoming the decisive voice within the group, essential for the rise of the Third Reich via the appeasement of Germany from 1920 to 1940. [6]

The Round Table was an amalgam of three groups each with a differing expertise:

The Toynbee group was a group of political intellectuals formed at Balliol about 1873 and dominated by Arnold Toynbee and Alfred Milner. This was in fact a group of Milner’s personal friends. It must be pointed out at this stage that Milner was a front for the mighty Cecil family, a family steeped in the shift from Catholic England into the reformed Puritan fanaticism. They were also very prominent during the reign of Elizabeth I with William Cecil, 1st Baron Burghley who was chief advisor to Elizabeth. This continued with his son Robert Cecil, 1st Earl of Salisbury serving Elizabeth I, and James I as spymaster.

The power of the Cecil family came in the form of its allied families such as the Lyttelton (Viscounts Cobham), Wyndham (Barons Leconfield), Grosvenor (Dukes of Westminster), Balfour, Wemyss, Palmer (Earls of Selborne and Viscounts Wolmer), Cavendish (Dukes of Devonshire and Marquesses of Hartington), and Gathorne-Hardy (Earls of Cranbrook). The Milner Group was originally a major fief within the great nexus of power, influence, and privilege controlled by the Cecil family. It is not possible to describe here the ramifications of the Cecil influence. It has been all-pervasive in British life since 1886.

This Cecil Bloc was built up by Robert Arthur Talbot Gascoyne-Cecil, Viscount Cranborne and third Marquess of Salisbury (1830-1903). The methods used by this man were merely copied by the Milner Group. These methods can be summed up under three headings: (a) a triple-front penetration in politics, education, and journalism; (b) the recruitment of men of ability (chiefly from All Souls) and the linking of these men to the Cecil Bloc by matrimonial alliances and by gratitude for titles and positions of power; and (c) the influencing of public policy by placing members of the Cecil Bloc in positions of power shielded as much as possible from public attention.

The Rhodes secret society was a group of imperial federalists, formed in the period after 1889 and using the economic resources of South Africa to extend and perpetuate the British Empire.

The Cecil Bloc was a nexus of political and social power formed by Lord Salisbury and extending from the great sphere of politics into the fields of education and publicity. In the field of education, its influence was chiefly visible at Eton and Harrow and at All Souls College, Oxford. In the field of publicity, its influence was chiefly visible in The Quarterly Review and The Times.

After the death of Cecil Rhodes in 1902, the group took on a different organisation and character while continuing the same goals. The group became a large and powerful organisation and was able to conceal its existence quite successfully, with many of its most influential members, satisfied to possess the reality rather than the appearance of power, are unknown even to close students of British history.

The chief method by which the Group works is through propaganda, to the point it was able to plot the Jameson Raid of 1895; it caused the Boer War of 1899-1902; it set up and controls the Rhodes Trust; it created the Union of South Africa in 1906-1910; it established the South African periodical The State in 1908; it founded the British Empire periodical The Round Table in 1910, and this remains the mouthpiece of the Group; it has been the most powerful single influence in All Souls, Balliol, and New Colleges at Oxford for more than a generation; it has controlled The Times for more than fifty years, with the exception of the three years 1919-1922, it publicised the idea of and the name British Commonwealth of Nations in the period 1908-1918, it was the chief influence in Lloyd George’s war administration in 1917-1919 and dominated the British delegation to the Peace Conference of 1919; it had a great deal to do with the formation and management of the League of Nations and of the system of mandates; it founded the Royal Institute of International Affairs in 1919 remaining in control of it today; it was one of the chief influences on British policy toward Ireland, Palestine, and India in the period 1917-1945; and it controlled and still controls, to a very considerable extent, the sources and the writing of the history of British Imperial and foreign policy since the Boer War.

In controlling Palestine and India from 1917 to 1945, the group was able to pave the way for the creation of Israel and the partitioning of India to form Pakistan in 1947.

The influence of the Astors has to be recognised as perhaps the most elite hand and closest to the royal House which suggests the whole affair was indeed a front for the Committee of 300. The Astors where very involved in the funding of Germany and appear to be the middlemen between London and Wall Street, Prescott Bush being the American link to Germany direct, especially from 1933 and the rise of Hitler’s Third Reich, involving the Rockefellers Standard Oil which ensured Germany had the technical know how to use their coal to make oil. Henry Ford also contributed via subsidiaries building transport and munitions.

Asters and fascist activity go hand in hand as we take not of the fact our unelected prime minister; David Cameron is married to an Astor as he unleashes his fascist policies to subvert the British economy and leave us under absolute dictatorship of the corporations.

Other names by which the Round Table has been known throughout its existence, helps to expose the might of its influence relative to the finance it attracted to itself through elite families already well versed in empire building, during the first decade it was known as the secret society of Cecil Rhodes and the dream of Cecil Rhodes. During the following two decades it was known as Milner’s Kindergarten and from 1910 to 1920, it became the Round Table Group, this has continued into today.

Nicknames abounded from 1920 usually based on whichever activities in a given period it was in the limelight and investigated, names such as the Times Crowd, the Rhodes crowd, the Chatham House crowd, the All Souls group, and the Cliveden set. Such names are the direct result of aspects of the group coming into the public eye as specific protocols of the groups agenda became.
public knowledge, yet they were only small parts of the groups overall activity, the main inner circle agenda kept very secret which would lead to untold death and destruction around the world continuing with the invasions of Afghanistan and Iraq, the subverting of Libya and the ever increasing calls for military strike on Iran, which would appear to have begun.

The main facilitator to the change in character of the group after the death of Rhodes, leading to the loss of control by Lord Salisbury of the Cecil bloc, came with the finance behind Milner, and the fact Milner was left in control of Rhodes estate enabling him to form his own power nexus outside the grip of Lord Salisbury. Enter the rather indifferent Arthur Balfour with serious Rothschild connections and the enabler of the call for a homeland for Jews. Meanwhile the European Jewry had achieved the comfort that they were no longer a people without a homeland, they had come to accept they were a people connected by a religion and happy to identify with the country they made their home. For the Zionist non-Zionist agenda, this would not do, and so Adolf Hitler as an agenda, was born in the minds of the Christian Zionist nonconformists, the fate of the German Jews was sealed, the Round Table required Israel and the rest is history with the ultimate aim yet to be acted.

From 1916 the Round Table group of Milner increased its power, and by 1938 it was without doubt the most powerful force in British politics and remains so today. I would not be without cause to name the Round Table as the main facilitator to the Committee of 300’s full and complete takeover of Britain, first after the battle of Waterloo when the House of Rothschild deceptively took the major share in the British stock economy, and again during the chaos that ensued in the financial sector when in 1930, the European nations now bankrupt after the First World War went cap in hand to the super elite of families within the Committee of 300 as they where offered the chance to borrow from the fund called the Bank for International Settlements. As with all things banking cartel monopoly, there was a catch, a big catch. In order they borrow from the fund it was made clear the collateral the fund required was the people of each respective nation to be presented as assets should the nations default on the loans, the government got the cash, the people got social security numbers, crown copyright birth certificates and an uppercase denoted mimic of their Christian names, a commercial debt account, but that was to come after the Second World War under the socialist labour government. The Rothschilds would hit Europe from their new fiefdom Russia.

All that was required from this point was that all the people be trained to identify their humanity as the debt account on behalf of the crown, ergo, the people become liable for the crown debt without realising this to be so, and here we are today as the global banking cartel play out their coup de tat upon global economies bringing everyone under their new financial centre, China which now owns the American economy.

The Round Table Group under Milner, after the success in South Africa in forming local groups of influential men to agitate for an imperial federation of the colonies under the command of the British crown, held together through correspondence and the Round Table periodical, paid for by the South African, Sir Abe Bailey, determined to expand the group into Canada in 1911, with around a dozen units, or study groups, set up in various cities under the eye of Arthur J. Glazebrook who can be said to have been the main man in Canada having been sent by a British bank in 1893, working in sync with Lionel Curtis secretary of the global network, Philip Kerr secretary of the London group, and Sir William Marris. New Zealand, Australia saw the implementation of five groups in each nation in 1910, and India was next on their list, specifically to enable a rallying call in the colonies to help in the coming stand against Germany and for the future partition agenda allowing the Parsis to control the division between Moslem and Hindu.

The Round Table network is global, it’s aim is to implement the Soviet system across the world as a re-brand of the Roman empire under the emperors. The huge foundations have been the main facilitators in the implementation of the will of the Round Table.

Via this network they have managed to pull together the old imperial corporations such as the British East India, the Virginia Company, the Dutch East India and the British South Africa Company and all others, to become one network now operating for the global cartel of elites, the Committee of 300.

Norman Dodd [7] former member of the Reece Committee in his work exposed the fact the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace had set fourth war as the greatest means to change a whole peoples, that through the foundation networks, the Round Table had managed to infiltrate the American State Department in order they ensured America entered the First World War, that they asked the Rockefeller Foundation to change the whole basis of education from one of fact based teaching to that of propaganda which served collectivism, and their communist agenda.

In conclusion

When one grasps this reality then any idea nation has set against nation by their own will, is tantamount to fairyland thinking. Always it has been the secret networks of merchants and traders, bankers and Kings moving ever forward in the complete monopolisation of every tradable resource. War is just a game to these people in order they can change the morality and minds of whole nations, when after the hell subsides all the people want is peace and the chance to rebuild some kind of normal existence and see not what the elites are doing in the background to further monopolise all life. We have had the two World Wars, the next one will be the most bloodthirsty yet as the Committee of 300 move to change the whole world to be accepting of their complete and utter domination, and to allow their twisted ideologies to become the global norm.

Notes
[1] Henry VII
[3] Edward VI
[4] British East India Company
Commercial company (1600-1873) chartered by Queen Elizabeth I and given a monopoly of trade between England and the Far East. In the 18th century, the company became, in effect, the ruler of a large part of India, and a form of dual control by the company and a committee responsible to Parliament in London was introduced by Pitt’s India Act 1784. The end of the monopoly of China trade came in 1834, and after the Indian Mutiny 1857-58 the crown took complete control of the government of British India. The India Act 1858 transferred all the companies powers to the British government.
The East India Company set up factories (trading posts) in Masulipatam on the east coast of India in 1611; on the west coast in Surat in 1612; and on the east coast in Madras (now Chennai) in 1639. Attempts to set up a factory on the Hooghly (one of the mouths of the Ganges) began in 1640, but were unsuccessful until 1690; the settlement later developed into the city of Calcutta (now Kolkata). By 1652 there were some 23
English factories in India. Bombay (now Mumbai) came to the British crown in 1662, and was granted to the East India Company for £10 a year in 1668. The British victory in the Battle of Plassey in 1757 gave the company control of Bengal. Opium

[5] Carol Quigley
[6] Appeasement of Germany from 1920 to 1940

Further Study
The Africa Project
In Profile: The Committee of 300, The Olympians
Committee of 300 and the war Against Iran
From Rome, to the Templars, to Freemasonry, we Face the Same Enemy